On 20 June 1979 the Senate passed the Intelligence Authorization Bill which includes an amendment extending to dependents of CIA and NSA employees serving overseas the same educational travel benefit presently provided to dependents of State Department employees. The House version of the Bill does not now include similar language but we are hopeful it will be retained in Conference. This information will be passed overseas via the Director's notes.

What this means is that if passed, and the State Authorization Bill is passed with two trips per year, we will gain the same benefit.

This is the closest we have come to date in our efforts to achieve this benefit for all Agency employees.
